Miles Nelson Environmental Policy

As a leading New Zealand provider of hardware related products, Miles Nelson recognises our responsibility to the environment.

Miles Nelson is committed to providing the best quality product and service to all our customers, in accordance with all environmental legislation.

We recognise our ability to influence supply and as such Miles Nelson is committed to partnering with businesses that promote sustainability and result in long-term economic and environmental benefit.

Our over-riding objective(s) is to ensure that all Miles Nelson products are designed / manufactured and supplied to reduce the overall impact of the built environment on human health and the natural environment by:

- The efficient use of energy, water, and other resources in the manufacture and supply of our products.
- Ensuring that our supply partners are committed to protecting occupant health and improving employee productivity through strong HR policies.
- All aspects of our business from design / manufacture and supply is committed to reducing waste and pollution in the manufacture of our products, packaging and distribution.
